MAGNIFIERS

by Bausch & Lomb

In all optical products, the Bausch & Lomb name is a hallmark of fine quality. The line of B&L magnifiers and readers exemplifies the Company's scientific experience and high standards of performance. Precision ground and polished lenses of clear white ophthalmic glass present images of sparkling contrast in sharp detail. Stack's, in line with its policy of top quality and value, is proud to offer this superior group of magnifiers. We know you will be proud to own a Bausch & Lomb.

Just What is a Magnifier?

Simply stated, any lens which increases the apparent dimensions of objects seen through it is called a magnifier. This increase may be accomplished by means of a single lens thicker at the center than at its edges. This is called a positive lens. By cementing single lenses together, to form compound lenses, we have more highly corrected magnifiers.

Why so Many Different Kinds of Magnifiers?

Since the purpose of any magnifier is to make an object appear larger; to increase its apparent dimensions so that its physical nature may be studied in great detail, the varied requirements of power, style of mounting and type of illumination cannot be met by a single model or type. Over the years many different types of magnifiers have been designed so that today a glass which is ideal for one job may be entirely inadequate for another.

To select the magnifier to fit your needs properly, four major considerations must be explored: power, or magnification; working distance; field of view; depth of field. Since all of these considerations are interdependent, a variation in any one will, of necessity, make some change in the others.

Consider Magnification First

A simple formula for determining the magnification of a lens, is  $\frac{10}{f} = \times$  (magnification). In this formula, $f$  stands for focal length, 10 stands for 10", the average minimum distance of an object from the "normal" unaided eye. This is based on the practical experience that nearer than 10", objects cannot be seen distinctly by the unaided eye. Using the formula, a lens with a focal length of 5", has a magnification of 2 power. Conversely, any lens of 2 power has a focal length of 5". This is a law of physics and there are no exceptions.

Consider Working Distance

Suppose you wish to examine a part being made on a machine, without removing it from the machine. Suppose also that the part is so situated within the machine that you cannot bring your magnifier any closer than 3". It is obvious that from the formula which we used, you could not use a  $5 \times$  magnifier because it has a working distance of only 2" (since magnifiers have a focal length and a working distance approximately the same). You must select a lens with a working distance of at least 3". This would mean a  $3 \times$  lens.

Field of View

Our third consideration, field of view, is the area seen through the magnifier. The diameter of the field of view of a magnifier is less than its focal length.

We have already found that as the power of a magnifier increases, its working distance decreases. Likewise, as the power increases, the lens diameter also decreases. All of these factors have a direct bearing on the field of view.

How to Hold Your Magnifier

To get the best possible performance from your magnifier, it should always be held as close to your eye as possible. This permits the fullest number of rays from the object to enter your eye and cuts down the reflected light striking surface of the lens.

Always see that the plane of the glass is parallel to the plane of the object. If you are examining a horizontal surface, the lens should be in a horizontal position. Otherwise, part of the image will be out of focus.

The exception to these rules is the use of a big lens type magnifier such as a reader. The reading glass has been purposely designed to be used with both eyes and should be held far enough away to permit this. It is a low power glass for use over extended periods of time, and cannot be classified by the rules governing most magnifiers.

Folding Pocket Magnifiers

These light weight but extremely durable plastic-mounted magnifiers are ideal for a wide variety of uses. Made with one, two, or three lenses, they provide a choice of several magnifications.

Highly Corrected Pocket Magnifiers

Both the Hastings and Coddington highly corrected magnifiers are excellent for purposes where greater magnification is required than is available with a reader. They are standard equipment in many sciences.

These represent the very finest quality available in magnifiers, providing excellent definition and wide field of view. In fact, they embody the maximum correction possible in magnifiers.

Hastings Triplet

In all four powers listed, the Hastings Triplet, highly corrected for spherical and chromatic aberration, provides an exceptionally wide field of view, and is the ultimate in magnifier quality.

THE NATIONAL COIN ALBUM

Visibility

Protection

Convenience

Your selection of the National Coin Albums will lead to a greater enjoyment of your collection. Designed in booklike form, the compactness and ready reference they afford as well as complete protection, have made them leaders for over two decades.

Two convenient sizes are available to suit the varied needs of collectors: Large pages measure 7½x14 inches and the small pages are 5½x8 inches. Binders are available for both sizes. All pages are made of heavy chipboard and faced with a tough cover stock in a pleasing tan color. The edges are bound with brown cloth tape. Both obverse and reverse of coins may be seen through sections of transparent acetate which cover each row of openings. The sturdy construction of these pages and binders will withstand years of use.

SETS OF SMALL SIZE PRINTED PAGES

On all the following sets the dates or titles are printed below each opening. Sets are sold only in sets as listed. You may, however, order any of the last three pages of sets starred * in order to bring your set up to date. All pages are punched to fit the small size binder. Please order by number.
